

The Dark Sea Reflection

The poem is based on an incident where an oil spill happened in the middle of the sea which was caused by the company, BP. Within the BP Oil Spill, hundred and thousands of marine species, coral reefs, etc. were terribly affected by this spill, causing them to flee or die from contamination. The purpose of the poem, "The Dark Sea," is to inform people about the mistakes humans make that cause negative things to happen in the ocean. It also challenges the mindset of people who litter by the beaches or in the ocean, considering them to think twice of their motives or littering or dumping. But overall, the poem stands out as an issue that coral reefs and fishes have when humans accidentally or purposely dump chemicals and substances in the ocean, killing off marine species.
