

Reflection

This prose titled, My Story: Lissa Massari, was about the consequences of polluting the ocean. People all over the world should be aware of the type of environment they live in. Yes, this is a fiction story, and the facts and statistic may not add up, but it could happen in the future if we do not take action. Like, the toxins that a chain smoker passes to his or her children, the toxins that we get from eating polluted fish can be passed down to our children, and we do not know the repercussions of this. In order to prevent this from really happening, we have to make the change now. A future little girl's life may be taken, just like that of Lisa Massari's and we must do anything that we can to prevent this tragedy from ever happening to a little girl and her family.
