

Carlos May
Guadalupe Marquez
4/1/17

Reflection

Now that we have finished our essay we want to go over why we decided to talk about the ocean and ocean pollution. I decided to talk about water and ocean pollution because i deeply care about the marine life. The animals are defenseless in my opinion. Whatever happens in their environment they can not change. It is up to us to prevent and help them when they can not help themselves We as humans cause many harm to their ocean and it is not fair for the animals to suffer for something they did not do. This is why I wanted to inform on the multiple types of pollution our ocean is facing today. My partner Guadalupe has stated that she decided to write about water pollution to inform others of not only the harm it is causing animals, but to humans as well. She cares about humans and animals and hopes that we help them in as they help us with many things. She hopes that one day we can all work together to protect them as a whole. Humanity helping animals, one step at a time.

